Procedure To Determine Emergency Response and Hazardous Material Fee Category

These fees are based on the chemical inventory submitted by the facility. The process is:

1. Multiply the quantity (pounds, gallons or cubic feet) of the Daily Maximum reported for each chemical times the Maximum Casualty Potential (MCP) rating for that chemical.
2. Add the total for all of the chemicals stored at that facility together to determine the fee range category for that facility.
3. Determine the fee associated with that fee range for each facility in each of the two programs.

Example Calculation

The facility reports the Daily Maximum Quantity of chemicals as 10,000 gallons of gasoline and 1,500 gallons of waste oil. The MCP for gasoline is .03 and waste oil is .02. Multiply 10,000 X .03 = 300 and 1,500 X .02 = 30. Add the products of your calculation 300 + 30 to obtain the fee range of 330. From the fee chart find that range and determine the fees. If this is a business the fees for the Hazardous Materials Program are $504 and the Emergency Response Program is $79. If this is a farm the fees for the Hazardous Material Program are $114 and for the Emergency Response Program is $27.
